

Energy Management Training Program Frequently Asked Questions

For whom is the Energy Management Training designed?

K-12 school district staff including maintenance staff, energy managers, purchasing officials and others responsible for facility maintenance and improvements.

We already practice Energy/Facilities Management at our district. Will this program benefit us?

Yes. The program is designed as continuing education for those that practice energy management as well as for those interested in establishing an energy management and preventative maintenance program.

What is the cost to register for this exciting program?

There is no cost to register for this program.

How much time is involved to participate?

The 9-month program is designed to be low-impact on the time and travel required to participate, realizing district personnel are busy and need to focus on day-to-day activities of running the district.

What dates/time are the workshops scheduled for? There will be a total of nine (9) workshop events (1 per month) held from August 2006 through May 2007. Regional, in-person workshops (2 or 3 total) will be at least ½ day and monthly teleconferences (6 or 7 total) will be roughly 2 hours for a total of roughly 24 hours of focused training. Specific dates and times will be provided in the near future.

Where will the in-person, regional workshops be located?

Regional workshop locations will be determined based on the locations of the districts that register to participate. We want to minimize the drive time required. We anticipate roughly four regional workshop sites throughout the state.

Do I need to plan to attend all workshops? Yes. The program is cumulative, future session build on the work of past sessions. Plan on attending all sessions. Monthly teleconferences will be recorded and available throughout the month they are held.

Are there any other district commitments necessary to participate in the no-cost training?

It is well documented that energy management efforts are most effective with district-wide and management support. Please review our 1-page letter of agreement for participating districts located at: http://www.colorado.gov/rebuildco/services/energy_management/training.htm
